Welcome to our new issue of fresh magazine. We've been supplied with some brilliant designs from our UK colleagues and these are featured throughout.

We meet Louise Graakjær who owns Acacia in Skjern, Denmark along with Joe Massie who works in Springbank Flowers, Manchester UK. Louise is highly regarded in her country and knew she wanted to be a florist while still at school.

Her drive to succeed enabled her to quickly develop knowledge and skills. Three years after commencing work at Acacia she purchased the business where Louise describes her style as fresh and simple.

A minimal approach achieves space and highlights flowers while giving an aesthetic, delicate quality to her bridal designs. She's not afraid to persuade clients to try something different and finds OASIS® Floral Foam perfect for her wedding and funeral designs. Louise also loves the versatility of coloured wires.

She regularly competes in high profile competitions as does Joe Massie who oozes energy and skill. He represented Great Britain three times before the age of twenty-one and even won the RHS Chelsea Flower Show Young Florist of the Year.

Last year Joe was an impressive third at the World Skills event in Calgary with marks that were excruciatingly close to first place! We hope that you enjoy the way he pushes the boundaries in his wedding work.

Both designers have incorporated a large variety of OASIS® Floral Products into their designs and we hope that you find these inspirational. We also hope that you enjoy the work by the placegetters in the first leg of this year's Designz® Cup along with Alan Randell-Smith's creations during a colourful trip to Africa.

Happy reading and don't forget to visit us at www.oasisfloral.com

The bride always has someone to give special thanks to on her Wedding Day.

It may be the parents, a best friend or an exceptional helper and the gift of flowers is a no fail solution. A design that is unique and specially chosen to reflect the theme of the wedding in OASIS® RAINBOW® Foam will withstand the rigors of the day. It will remain fresh and lovely for the recipient to take home.

Louise has created a sublime, minimal design using the froth of Gypsophila as a base with an edging of Skeleton Bayan Leaves currently only available in Europe so try a substitute to achieve the same effect. The square container holds Ivory OASIS® RAINBOW® Foam that peeps through the Gypsophila giving an additional design element.

One exquisite Calla was draped horizontally across the Steel Grass with a Flower Pick inserted to hold it in place while Steel Pins keep a single Cymbidium firmly in the centre of the design. A thank you gift like this works every time!

fresh THINKING

Innovative design ideas with customer appeal.

Joe Massie is a hot 21-year-old designer with a huge following in the UK.

Fresh from his success in the World Skills competition and with a new job at Springbank Flowers in Manchester this leading event florist is keen to show the world his exciting blend of designs. Thinking outside the square is his trademark and this ring bearer's cushion is a great combination of high design and saleability.

The cushion is made on a 23cm OASIS® NAYLORBASE® Posy Pad and Joe has used preserved Magnolia Leaves. These have been wrapped around the foam in a vertical ridged formation leading up to central platform of Carnations where the rings are placed. Pearls on a Reel, Crystals, Beads, Bullion Wire and Ceropegia sandersonii have been entwined to decorate the outer Magnolia Leaf base. One single Phalaenopsis Orchid accentuates the ring placements.

No more fishing around for rings when this masterpiece arrives in stunning style.

a brilliant Classic

Here the romantic wedding bouquet that brides' dream about is given a modern update without losing its traditional silhouette.

Louise used an OASIS® Grande Bent Handle Bouquet Holder with its larger expanse of floral foam and protective plastic cage because it's an ideal holder for cascading or larger bridal bouquets. First she made the classic outline of the bouquet using the old time favourite Asparagus Fern and has given it a new lease of life in this clever design.

The bouquet builds from the trailing stem of Phalaenopsis Orchids into a profusion of Cymbidium and Phalaenopsis Orchids at the centre. A glimmer of Diamante Spray adds brilliance to the bouquet and the Orchids are overlaid with stripped Asparagus fern stems to give a veiled effect.

No ordinary Bridesmaid's Bouquet

Joe took up the fresh challenge of creating an economical yet stylish bouquet and created a unique saleable design. This blooms-on-a-budget bouquet is stylish, modern and much of it can be assembled long before the wedding day to free up valuable time. The bouquet can be made in any colour scheme and the amount of bead and foliage embroidery will depend upon the budget.

What's more it's made entirely with long lasting Carnations which have been out of fashion for far too long. Follow Joe's instructions to make this pistachio cornet bouquet.

Round Headed Pearl Pins

Step 1

Remove all the Metallic, Bullion and Aluminium Wires from their reels and let them drop into a large container which will restrain them while keeping them clean. Mix the Wires then scrunch them together to form a neat cone shape. Ensure that the OASIS® Grande Straight Handle Bouquet Holder fits snugly into this shape. Neaten and support the shape by sewing the edges with extra wire to produce a clean professional finish.

Step 2

Slip the Bouquet Holder into the Cone then sew firmly into place by threading extra wire through the protective cage that surrounds the foam and continue this wire down to the base of the cone finishing with a Bead. Soak the Floral Foam by carefully holding the cone upside down and immersing only the foam into a bowl of water. Drain off any excess water and cut the Carnation stems diagonally before inserting them in close formation beginning with the outer ring. Make sure they are pushed in well for security and build them up into a domed mass.

Step 3

Embellish one side of the Carnation dome with Round Headed Pearl Pins, Diamante Spray, Heuchera leaves, Hypericum Berries and entwined Ceropegia trails to carry through the pistachio colours. Make trails of Beads and Flower Picks threaded onto Bullion Wire and attach to a central placement of flat leaves. Add a scroll of apple green Aluminium Wire then leave bouquet in a cool place until delivery.

Moody black and ruby colours are used throughout this dramatic bouquet giving it lashings of attitude. A seductive statement from the bride who wants to inject passion into her day.

Made on a versatile OASIS® Grande Lady Bouquet Holder the long handle is constructed by scrunching Bullion, Aluminium and Metallic Wires together to form an elongated shape. Black curls of Aluminium Wire are then added to the handle which is encircled by Black Pearls on a Reel. The head of the bouquet is a dome of rich ruby red coloured Roses and Leaves combined with swirls of black and red Aluminium Wire.

A web of tumbling Berries, miniature Roses, Orchids and Ceropegia trails down the length of the handle. This unexpected bouquet suits the flamboyant bride who enjoys vamping it up and breaking tradition with some boldness!

Designz® Cup 2010
New South Wales

Left: Amy Nardi highlights the tradition of The Thirteen Gold Coins or Trece Monedas de Oro in her Mexican design. The coins are given to the bride by the groom as a symbol of his unquestionable trust and confidence.

He pledges to place all of his goods into her safekeeping and her acceptance means taking that trust and confidence unconditionally - with total dedication and prudence.

Below: Haromi Hardie uses traditional bamboo and the colours of the orient to depict a Chinese Wedding.

Wizardry

Designs were dazzling in the latest Designz® Cup event.

Students developed a wedding design around the culture of their chosen country and Alan Randell-Smith awarded the following results:

1st Prize	Michael Cordeiro Ultimo College - Sydney Institute of TAFE
2nd Prize	Amy Nardi Ultimo College - Sydney Institute of TAFE
3rd Prize	Haromi Hardie Padstow College of TAFE - Southern Sydney Institute

Michael Cordeiro captured the legend of Medusa in his Greek wedding. Mythology says she was exceptionally beautiful before being turned into an ugly Gorgon with snake hair by the jealous Goddess Athena. Each strand of serpent-like hair had to be stiff enough to stay in position yet also flexible enough to mimic the movement and writhing of live snakes.

Michael did a great deal of binding and wiring to achieve this result. Then he used hot glue to shape a serpent that was covered with decorative wire at diagonals to adorn Medusa's shoulder. More wiring formed the glittering frame of the trailing bouquet below.

Covered with beaded wires this dazzling snake skin connected the traditional Greek gift of money with serpent-like foliage including closed Water Lilies, Leucodendron and Medusa leaves. Broken white plates, sugar coated almonds as well as typical bridal flowers like Lisianthus and Orchids also captured the Greek theme.

Vials were covered, wrapped and wired into the design to enable strategic placement of foliage while numerous OASIS® Wires and Beads appeared throughout. "Stub Wire was used with Bindwire to create a strong framework that was pliable enough to be shaped into interesting lines," said Michael.

"It gives me great pleasure and satisfaction to touch people's lives by providing a high quality service where flowers are made all the more special by the way they've been presented or arranged."

I am grateful for the inspiration and motivation that other professionals in the industry provide," said Michael Cordeiro recently.

Out of Africa

Students exploded with enthusiasm when Alan Randell-Smith arrived in Nairobi to teach them.

They couldn't wait to transfer traditional methods of wiring into a variety of OASIS® products including Wreath Rings, Crosses and Dekorette Bricks. Bouquet holders were an important component but first everyone watched Alan create stunning designs that filled the stage.

When the bouquet on page 12 appeared in an archway adorned with OASIS® Floral Garlands the crowd clapped madly rushing to take photos. Two classes expanded into three as locals grabbed an opportunity to develop their skills and try out new products.

Forty hands-on students and fifty spectators became one hundred percent hands-on in the first 10 minutes! A riot of colour and noise erupted as the first group of roadside and market sellers took part in making a wreath followed by a bouquet. All listened intently to Alan's instructions on the correct use of OASIS® Floral Foam and sundries before they went to work.

Students were so impressed with the sessions that they performed a traditional African dance complete with singing. Special thanks must go to Zwapak Africa, Kenya Flower Council along with John Kihia from Florallife® Africa for all their help and sponsorship during Alan's unforgettable visit.

Fresh Start

There is a simple three-point plan to professional flower care. It's an insurance policy for florists to guarantee that flowers and foliage last the longest possible time for customers.

Applying professional standards and techniques is vital when it comes to running a successful business. Expert organization, high-quality cleanliness and specialist flower care provide an essential launching pad for floristry design achievement. OASIS® Floralife® are constantly researching and developing products to enhance the life of flowers – their programme of study and research explores the best possible ways in which to do this. Try out the following three stage plan to achieve maximum lasting qualities in your flowers.

1. Hydration and Nutrition

Hydration in a flower shop means giving flowers water the minute they arrive from the grower or wholesaler. Often the florist has no idea what sort of treatment the flowers have been given by the grower and when flowers arrive dry packed they need immediate attention. By using a storage solution the speed the flowers take up water is enhanced and perfect crispness results. Waiting for flowers to take up water can mean hours of delay, but with OASIS® Floralife® 200 Clear Storage Solution, the process is speeded up and stem blockages are removed. Recutting the flower stems and using a storage solution is a great way to start flower care.

2. Protection

OASIS® Floralife® Finishing Touch is a ready to use liquid finishing spray mist used on fresh flowers and foliage, floral designs and pot plants to refresh, hydrate and protect. It's an essential tool for florists, particularly useful for bridal work where buttonholes, corsages and bouquets can be made up in advance and then protected with a quick spray. The spray is transparent and leaves no residue, try it on pot plants and foliage too, it's a clear winner.

3. Customer Care

Educate customers to enjoy their flowers for longer with the addition of an OASIS® Floralife® professional cut flower food 'take-home' sachet. The solution stays clear when added to the water and helps to keep flowers fresh, providing additional value. OASIS® Floralife® Flower Food Sachets give a nutritional boost to flowers and come in different pre-measured sachets – 3.5g, 5g and 10g so that the correct amount of food can be added to any size bouquet. Use OASIS® Floralife® Flower Food sachets for cut flower storage, vase solutions and floral foam soaking.

fresh THINKING

Innovative design ideas with customer appeal.

Louise Graakjær is fast becoming one of Denmark's best young floral designers.

Her innovative style of design coupled with good commercial sense blends seamlessly to give her customers designs that delight and enthuse them. Louise loves brides at her shop named Acacia in Skjern and producing bride-wowing designs is what she does best.

Using only fragrant Lily of the Valley and woven grasses this ethereal bouquet will gently tremble as the bride glides down the aisle. The OASIS® Ladynette Bouquet Holder makes a perfect holder for this entwined bouquet and Louise started with a silhouette of grass. She then overlayed grasses weaving them across the rounded head of the bridal holder and pinned them in place to elegantly drape either side.

With the Lily of the Valley firmly inserted into the wet floral foam the delicate nodding bell shaped flowers will stay turgid and fresh all day long. Selling this seductively stylish bouquet is easy with the personalized bridal service that Louise gives.

and for the DASHING Groom...

Mr Right will be far from boring with this bold boutonnière designed to create a stylish look for the up-to-the-minute bridegroom.

Joe created a heart-shaped outline with twisted wires in a variety of shades of pink along with silver to form a dramatic background. He built up the design by gluing a mixture of Gloriosa petals and various Leaves to the framework using OASIS® Floral Adhesive in a Tube. He then used more of this favourite product when he glued a Corsage Magnet to the back of the boutonnière for secure fastening without damaging the new suit.

fresh designer tips

- Don't use too much glue. A small blob will be sufficient then leave for a few minutes to get tacky before sticking.
- Twisted wire is made by taking two or more wires then fixing securely into a cordless drill. Switch on and the wires will twist together.

HOLDME

What bride could resist this shimmering handbag that invites carrying? Joe's romantic heart shaped bag twinkles and glistens as the sparkling Gloriosa catch the light.

The three dimensional shape is made from a blend of twisted wires in hot pinks and silvers with the inner sections comprising swirls of Aluminium Wire. The Gloriosa has been glued into place using OASIS® Floral Adhesive in a Tube with Heuchera leaves tucked into the centre to give depth to the design. This luminous handbag is as light as a feather and so easy to hold – an artistic masterpiece. Consider the myriad of shapes and effects that could be created by using this technique with other shades of wire and foliage.

They are endless!

Arm yourself with this high impact wrist decoration designed to make the bride, or even the bridesmaid, stand out from the crowd.

There are no fiddly fixing methods required when you use the elasticised Rock Candy Bracelet that slips easily onto the wrist and fits perfectly every time. Joe used the twisted wire technique to produce a cascade of silvery tendrils decorated with Dendrobium buds and entwined with Ceropogia trails.

Wire leaf shapes surround Dendrobium and Phalaenopsis Orchids which were glued into place to create a stunning wrist decoration. Don't keep this design just for weddings but allow it to dazzle debutantes, eveningwear, parties or even corporate marquees during the racing carnival!
