Welcome to another issue of fresh magazine. We hope that you've recovered from a demanding start to the year with Mother's Day soon disappearing into a sea of so many other occasions.

With extra weddings scheduled for the warmer months ahead we introduce ideas from the UK design team along with a couple of local ones. Readers may recall our national Designz® Cup winner from Western Australia who gave us a wonderful interpretation of Mumbles a couple of years ago. He was the penguin who couldn't stop dancing in Happy Feet.

Lauren Black

Later Lauren Black created a series of Mother's Day designs for fresh which have absolutely stood the test of time and now she has designed two refreshing bouquets. Her own wedding is looming up in October so we wish her loads of happiness on that day and she assures us she won't be doing the flowers!

Currently working as the Marketing & Communications Manager at Cottesloe Golf Club (Inc) she puts her floristry qualifications to good use at every opportunity. She's booked for weddings most weekends and may be found at www.fromthegarden.com.au

See the latest winners of the Designz® Cup on pages 8-9 where this year's theme explores many well-known Australian stories. Bring a Book to Life is especially attracting fans of Snugglepot and Cuddlepie as they compete with last year's Marilyn Monroe for the most popular choice by entrants. Our venue at the Royal Sydney Show also included floristry classes for children who were photographed enjoying themselves on pages 10-11.

Happy reading!

Lynette Todd, Editor

On the Trail

This transparent cascading bridal bouquet blazes a trail for elegant designs in the coming wedding season.

Falling from a dreamy sphere of starry Gypsophila is a waterfall of shimmering silver Bullion Wire. Blushing Phalaenopsis Orchids and velvety Stachys Leaves have been carefully threaded throughout.

Exquisitely light to hold this is an affordable and luxurious choice for the romantic bride. It's also easy to make using an OASIS® Grande Bent Handle Bouquet Holder.

fresh designer tips

- Make the framework first and attach securely to the cage around the edge of the OASIS® Grande Bent Handle Bouquet Holder.
- Wind the Bullion Wire around a pencil to get the pretty curling effect.
- Keep the Gypsophila compact by wiring little bunches together for easy insertion into the floral foam.

Bridal Bravado

Be brave and introduce some vibrant colour to a winter wedding.

Combine rich red Roses with Proteas to brighten up an overcast day plus hint at the romance and passion underlying this important celebration. If the sun decides to shine then this bouquet will look even more dazzling against the crisp, white bridal gown that frames it.

Rustic Grapevine Wire

How to make:

Step 1 Start by wrapping Rustic Grapevine Wire around itself in dinner-plate sized circles to create a rustic collar.

Secure collar to the back of an OASIS® Grande Bent Handle Bouquet Holder using Bindwire and forming a silhouette.

Step 2 Insert Peppercorn greenery into the front of the bouquet then evenly distribute the weight ensuring stems are securely inserted.

Continue around the collar creating a lush and full visual support for your flowers.

Step 3 Once all greenery is in place insert Alstroemeria, Roses, Leucadendron and Proteas. Count and plan your placements to ensure even distribution, balanced colour and weight.

Drape red Pearls on Reel across the entire arrangement to give a special finish for the bride-to-be.

Pastel Panache

Design by Lauren Black

How to make:

Step 1 Begin by cutting Vibernum foliage into small sections and insert evenly around the collar of your OASIS® Lady II Bouquet Holder.

Continue until you have created a luscious bed of greenery which will act as the visual support for your bouquet.

Step 2 After placement of all greenery strip Rose thorns. Wrap 7-9 rose heads with pink 25g Bullion Wire dancing the wires along the tips of the Rose petals.

Now insert them into the bouquet holder in a compact posy design interspersing stalks of Erica at regular intervals. Aim for an even distribution of colour and weight.

Step 3 Finally insert 20mm Round Headed Pearl Pins into the heads of Atlantis Roses in a downward direction. Ensure the ends of the pins are hidden and there is no risk of injury to the bride-to-be.

Make sure the pearls are evenly arranged across bouquet to create a soft and elegant finish for the bride.

fresh designer tips

- Decorate the ends of several lengths of cord with Beads and attach to the handle of the OASIS® Lady II Bouquet Holder. Cover the back and handle of the bouquet holder with Stachys Leaves which is a UK product so use a local substitute.
- Make a compact base of Gypsophila following the contours of the OASIS® Lady II Bouquet Holder. Ensure all stem ends are inserted into the wet floral foam before adding a Phalaenopsis Orchid.

fresh designer tips

- Cut the handle off the OASIS® Lady II and cover the base by gluing on a local substitute for Stachys Leaves using OASIS® Floral Adhesive.
- A firm handle has been constructed by coating flexible slender canes with silver Bullion Wire. They are then bent into place through the floral foam for security. Use more of them finished with a bead to form the trail. Ensure these are firmly fixed into place.

Bring a Book

Left: Jill Scott chose Tiddalik for her design. It's the story of a frog who consumed so much water that the other animals became extremely thirsty and he was eventually turned to stone for his greed.

Surprisingly the brook from this story is in Jill's backyard. She gathered red sandstone rock for her frog then drilled out his eyes before filling them with Walnut shells and Hazelnuts. "I covered him with moss which I watered every day for several weeks to keep him green. My waterfall was made from water crystals which I added food colouring to and all animals were constructed from natural plant materials."

Below: Norman Lindsay's Magic Pudding was brought to life by Jennifer Williams. Who could forget the tale of the pudding that replenishes itself and the characters that squabble over it?

OASIS® Netted Spheres were filled with Anthuriums, Roses, Dahlias, Hypericum, Nandina, Paper Daisies and Vanda Orchids for a mouth-watering result.

Right: Lirial was the inspiration for Lana Lichman and she has woven many OASIS® products into a stunning cloak and vest for her character. The entrance to the secret room which awaited Lirial for centuries was similarly decorated in harmonious tones.

to Life

There was plenty of snuggling and cuddling at the Royal Easter Show in Sydney.

Several interpretations of Snugglepot and Cuddlepie gave Alan Randell-Smith and David Berger plenty to ponder when they awarded the following results:

1st Prize Yuk Yi Wong Ryde College, Northern Sydney Institute

2nd Prize Jill Scott Kurri Kurri Campus, Hunter Institute of TAFE

3rd Prize Jennifer Williams Canberra Institute of Technology

Highly Commended Lana Lichman Padstow College, South Western Sydney Institute of TAFE

Yuk Yi Wong likes to be called Jo and also likes bushwalking. She enjoys the plants and creatures of the Australian bush so it's not surprising that she chose an author who used these ingredients so effectively.

When May Gibbs wrote The Complete Adventures of Snugglepot and Cuddlepie she could not have imagined how many generations would fall in love with her bush babies and want to visit her museum at Nutcote. Jo is one of the many who are amazed by the quality of May's original illustrations and how her stories connect with nature. Readers are instructed to "please be kind to all bush creatures" and this is the message Jo hopes to spread.

"I especially liked the gum nut babies which is why I made them a focal point of my design. I used a variety of Eucalypts, Banksias, Flannel flowers (my favourite) and an interesting foliage called Grandfather's Whiskers (Cleome houtteana). Other Australian natives along with Paperbark for the gum nut babies and the book were included."

Jo made her design more eye-catching by using frame work construction techniques recently learnt in her Certificate IV class. Oasis® Netted Spheres were transformed into gum nut babies and Oasis® Bindwire became the spider's web. She used a gluing technique to layer the Paperbark book along with a pinning technique to create heads and caps for the babies.

"I enjoy creating original designs and seeing them come to life. I also like the pleasure that flowers give people and feel my floristry is inspired by the beauty of nature.

I want to thank all my floristry teachers who have always inspired me to work harder and pursue better techniques," said Jo.

DESIGNZ® CUP 2014 NEW SOUTH WALES

Compelling Cupca

Children enjoyed cutting their floristry teeth at the Sydney Royal Easter Show.

The all new Flora Kulchas stage shows and activities introduced kids to the wonderful world of flowers and floral creations. In the shows adults dressed as flowers entertained audiences with a dance troupe called the Florettes. Children dressed in buzzing bee costumes were choreographed to demonstrate the process of pollination.

More children joined in craft workshops where they could create a terrarium, floral cupcake or flower head dress to take home. Flora Kulchas members included Michael Cordeiro whose creative drive hasn't stopped since winning the national Designz® Cup award in 2010.

What is FLORA KULCHAS?

Flora-edu-tainment delivered by a troupe of Sydney based florists and educators. They are passionate about flowers!

Cakes in Bloom

A flower shop can be the destination for almost every wedding accessory - no need for brides to go elsewhere.

Now with the arrival of the OASIS® Floral Cupcakes table settings suddenly become a whole lot easier. Combine a table decoration with a menu or table number using a large OASIS® Floral Cupcake.

Create the perfect table décor by accentuating the effect with small OASIS® Floral Cupcake name place holders then customise designs to match the colour palette of the wedding. It's a unique and effective way of creating table settings while also providing a great take home memento of the special day.

Top Tier

Fresh flowers bring a cake to life and can be one of the most profitable wedding designs for florists to make.

With one or two blooms left over from the bridal bouquet a wedding cake can be transformed to complement the overall style of the day. Ceropegia cascades down the tower of tiers giving this plain cake a soft feminine look.

fresh designer tips

- Do not over soak the OASIS® Mini Deco as this could result in water damage to the cake. Ensure that the floral foam is well drained and the base is dry before placing onto the cake.
- Care should be taken when choosing fresh flowers for a cake decoration as some flowers are toxic. All flowers should be removed before cutting and serving the cake.
- Use a satin ribbon in a complementary colour around the tiers of the cake. secure with a decorative pin.
